

the fight against world poverty

where next for the UK?

your chance to shape the debate

“The global community faces enormous challenges. The economic crisis, food security, climate change, energy insecurity, conflict, rising population – these are challenges of unprecedented magnitude which affect us all, and in particular the world’s poorest and most vulnerable.”

Douglas Alexander, Secretary of State for International Development (10 February 2009)

The Department for International Development (DFID) is working on a new White Paper that will be published in July 2009. As we develop a new narrative to explain how our approach is changing we want to hear your views. Please join us at one of our regional consultation events to share your ideas. You’ll have the chance to ask questions and debate a focus topic.

At these events you will hear from:

- a DFID Minister
- a speaker from one of the many organisations that work hard to help eliminate global poverty
- inspiring stories from volunteers who have worked on an international development project

For more details and to register for your regional consultation event www.coievents.co.uk/dfidwhitepaperconsultation