Over one billion people in the world are without safe water and over two and a half billion lack basic sanitation. As a result around 5000 children die every day from water-related diseases.

WaterAid works in 17 countries in Africa, Asia and the Pacific region to help some of the world's poorest communities set up and maintain their own water and sanitation projects. So that health benefits are maximised communities also learn about good hygiene. To ensure our projects last long in to the future WaterAid works through local organisations using low cost technologies that are easy to operate and maintain.

- £4 could pay for a hygiene education manual in Ghana
- £15 is enough to provide one person in Africa, Asia or the Pacific region with a lasting supply of safe water, sanitation and hygiene education
- £30 could pay for a waste pit in Mali
- £45 is enough for one handpump in Tanzania
- £100 could pay for a hand-dug well providing water for 150 people in Nigeria
- £450 could provide one year of hygiene education to 850 people in Nepal

WaterAid's mission is to overcome poverty by enabling the world's poorest people to gain access to safe water, sanitation and hygiene education.
