Child Safeguarding Procedure
Keeping children safe

1. Introduction

1.1 WaterAid believes that that safe water, sanitation and hygiene are fundamental to life and everyone has a right to these basic services. Through our work WaterAid will come into contact with some of the world's most vulnerable and marginalised communities, where a commitment to child safeguarding is paramount. Child safeguarding is everybody's responsibility to ensure children are safe and protected, and includes measures to prevent or minimise the potential for abuse occurring.

1.2 This child safeguarding procedure, along with the Global Standard: Child Safeguarding (Global Standard or GSCS) which can be found here www.wateraid.org/uk/safeguarding, aims to provide guidance and direction to all WaterAid representatives. Some key points from the Global Standard include:

- WaterAid adopts the UNCRC definition of a child as anyone under the age of 18.
- Children have a right to be protected from all the following forms of violence and abuse:
  - Physical abuse: when a child is hurt or injured by an adult or another child
  - Emotional abuse: the persistent emotional maltreatment of a child
  - Neglect: the persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs
  - Sexual abuse: when a child or young person is used, forced or enticed into taking part in sexual activities
  - Bullying: will usually include one or all of the above defined categories of abuse and used as deliberately hurtful behaviour, usually repeated over a period of time
  - Exploitation: refers to the abuse of children and their rights
  - Racism and other types of discrimination are also considered by WaterAid as forms of child abuse. Like other kinds of abuse, they can harm a child physically and emotionally.
- Everyone associated with WaterAid or representing WaterAid has a responsibility to minimise the risks of abuse to children. The commitments in the GSCS apply to all WaterAid members and countries where WaterAid works and covers all WaterAid representatives, including WaterAid staff, trustees, consultants, WaterAid partners, supporters and other participants on WaterAid field visits.

- WaterAid has a duty of care to all children it is in contact with, directly or indirectly.
- Direct contact is usually when there is face-to-face contact with a child. This may also include being within close proximity to a child or children, for example through trips to local communities and schools, organised events, delivery of safe water and hygiene to a local community, work experience in the office, film and photography.
- Indirect contact is usually when there is not direct physical contact with a child, but the ability to communicate or impact a child or group of children in some way is present, for example through social media, email, telephone or written communication on our website.

2. Aims of this procedure

2.1 This procedure aims to provide practical support in implementing the Global Standard: Child Safeguarding which can be found here www.wateraid.org/uk/safeguarding. As part of the global commitments, all members and country programmes must apply this procedure so that:

- The rights of children are protected and enhanced through programmes and projects
- WaterAid staff and representatives understand issues of child safeguarding, are aware of the problem of child abuse and are able to prevent harm and abuse to children in their work
- There are clear guidelines on reporting suspected child abuse. Anyone looking to make a report or raise a child protection concern is aware of how to do this and what will happen as a result.

2.2 Organisational risks and duty of care are covered through implementing procedures, clear roles and responsibilities and good practice in all areas of work designed to safeguard children.

2.3 If you have any questions or requests for other support with implementing the Global Standard: Child Safeguarding, please contact a member of the People Team.

3. Roles and responsibilities
3.1 All WaterAid representatives

3.1.1 Everyone has a role to play in ensuring that children are safeguarded through WaterAid’s work – remember child safeguarding is everybody’s business. All WaterAid representatives must:

- Become familiar with the Global Standard: Child Safeguarding
- Become aware of abuse and the risks to children and be vigilant
- Be clear about their responsibilities to prevent harm and protect children (see appendix 2 for some general do’s and don’ts when in contact with children)
- Report any concerns about actual or possible abuse or harm to children or risk of such

3.1.2 WaterAid representatives who have direct and indirect contact with children in their roles are required to undertake additional measures to ensure child safeguarding, as detailed in section 4.

3.2 Governance and accountability

3.2.1 Child safeguarding must become an intrinsic aspect of the way we do business and so requires high-level support and monitoring. The relevant Chief Executive will advise their WaterAid Board as appropriate on implementation of safeguarding measures designed to manage identified risks, and of any child protection incidents (without revealing details of children involved in cases).

3.3 Senior leaders

3.3.1 Although child safeguarding is everyone’s responsibility, senior leaders (Chief Executives, Directors, Country Directors, Regional Directors and Heads of Department) are ultimately accountable for the implementation and operation of the Global Standard in their country programme, region, member office or department. Senior leaders may delegate the day-to-day responsibility to others in their teams, but remain ultimately responsible.

3.3.2 Specific responsibilities for senior leaders include:

- Appoint Safeguarding Focal Point(s) (SFP) and ensure they have sufficient time, training and support to conduct their roles effectively
- Make sure that the Global Standard is in place and that any local laws are adhered to
• Ensure that their teams are fully aware of the standard and have training to ensure they are able to meet the standard
• Identify any child safeguarding risks in their area of work with their teams and ensure any actions needed to meet the commitments in the Global Standard are in place
• Ensure that staff and other WaterAid representatives are clear on the procedure for reporting and responding to child abuse
• Ensure any concerns or complaints of child abuse or safeguarding incidents are taken seriously, responded to immediately and reported appropriately
• Build and maintain relationships with partners and other organisations, to promote the development and monitoring of child safeguarding practices.

3.4 Safeguarding focal points

3.4.1 Each country will appoint a Safeguarding Focal Point (SFP) who is a senior member of staff. In country programmes, the role may sit in the programmes team due to its proximity to projects, partners and beneficiaries. For WaterAid UK and in the London office, two or more staff are required from different departments and country programmes may decide to have more than one focal point based on the number of staff and the number of volunteers who want to play an active role.

3.4.2 A SFP does not have overall responsibility for safeguarding or for creating a safe and trusted environment, this rests with the senior leader. The purpose of the role is to support the senior leader in their responsibilities by being the focal point for local safeguarding activities which include:

• Champion protection considerations locally and provide technical and coordinating support regarding safeguarding where possible
• Understanding the suite of safeguarding policies and procedures in WaterAid (Global Standard: Child Safeguarding, Child Safeguarding Procedure, Global Code of Conduct, Global procedure for reporting malpractice and breaches to the Global Code of Conduct)
• Raise awareness of safeguarding via the provision of information, including through induction briefings and training
• Support the senior leader to identify safeguarding risks, develop action plans, embed, monitor and report on safeguarding into existing local systems
• Support the senior leader to identify national statutory requirements, map the broader safeguarding environment and build links with other agencies (see appendix 3 for support on gathering local information on child safeguarding)

• Act as a focal point to receive information and contribute to learning across the network of SFPs

• Ensure that all staff, representatives and staff of partner agencies are aware of the contact details of their SFP for receiving safeguarding concerns and/or complaints

• Acting as a confidential point of support, advice and guidance for any member of staff or partners with concerns

• Where a report or complaint regarding actual or possible harm to a child, beneficiary or member of staff is made, the SFP should ensure an adequate response is made in line with the reporting procedure

• Organise training to be delivered to new staff and refresher training to existing staff every three years

• Assist the Programme Manager at the time of contracting to ensure the partner organisation has appropriate safeguarding training in place for all staff or offer to assist with the provision of training

• Act as point of advice for others planning events, trips or other activities involving children or young people and review risk assessments

• Fulfil any internal reporting requirements.

3.4.3 Any member of staff acting as a focal point will be supported as follows:

• Receive training and have access to continuing development opportunities to support them in carrying out their role

• Be provided support to network across WaterAid with other focal points to promote sharing of learning and mutual support

• Be provided with sufficient space to carry out their duties. This may mean allocating some of their workload to others.

4. Prevention

4.1 This section provides guidance on how to implement child safeguarding policies and practices into your work. As a summary, WaterAid requires the following minimum requirements to be fulfilled by WaterAid representatives prior to any contact with children, across all members and country programmes:
1. A safeguarding risk assessment must be completed for projects, activities and programmes that carry the greatest child safeguarding risks. Appendix 6 provides factors that will help determine which projects carry the greatest risks.

2. All WaterAid staff must complete the child safeguarding e-learning programme and training workshop during induction and thereafter at least every 3 years. This includes staff who will have no expected contact with children in their role. All staff will be expected to participate when this procedure is initially rolled out across WaterAid. The e-learning includes a declaration which must be completed by all staff.

3. WaterAid consultants and trustees should also complete the e-learning programme prior to first contact with children when representing WaterAid. The e-learning includes a declaration which must be completed.

4. A clear reporting procedure must be established to allow staff and others, including children themselves and community members, to raise any concerns regarding actual or possible child abuse or any other breaches of the Global Standard.

4.2 These requirements will be included in WaterAid internal audit requirements and compliance will be reported.

4.3 Risk assessments and programme design

4.3.1 WaterAid recognises that there are potential risks to children arising from the delivery of our programmes. A safeguarding risk assessment must be completed for projects, activities or programmes that carry the greatest child safeguarding risks. See appendix 4 for a risk assessment template and appendix 5 for an example risk assessment for planning an event involving children. Appropriate control measures should be put in place to reduce any risks, particularly by designing activities to remove unsupervised contact with children.

4.3.2 Teams should decide which projects, activities or programmes carry the greatest child safeguarding risks by utilising the factors in appendix 6. Where teams are unsure as to the level of risk, they should complete a risk assessment.

4.4 Risk assessments should be completed with consideration of the following factors:

4.4.1 Consideration should be made for keeping children safe within programme and project design. It is the responsibility of Programme Managers to ensure that risk assessments (appendix 4) for their respective programmes and/or projects are completed in the inception phase, are regularly updated throughout the programme or project lifecycle and made available for inspection as required. For existing programmes or projects, the assessment should be incorporated into any ongoing or annual monitoring and review processes, and must be undertaken before engaging any new partner organisations.

4.4.2 Think about all possible risks to children. If the activity involves attending clubs or groups, consider safety and protection of children on the journey to and from the group, as well as when they are participating in the activity with WaterAid staff or representatives. This should extend to the health and safety of children working on WaterAid projects. As a minimum WaterAid and its partners should comply with national legislation on employing children.

4.4.3 Involve children in the design, development and monitoring of projects. Get their insights and thoughts into risks that affect them and how they can best be made to feel safe. However, first you must remember to risk assess children’s participation in this way.

4.5 Child safeguarding declaration

4.5.1 All staff, consultants and trustees on trips organised by WaterAid must be briefed on and are required to partake in the e-learning programme on child safeguarding prior to any contact with children in their WaterAid role. The e-learning includes a declaration which must be completed.

4.5.2 The child safeguarding declaration (appendix 1) must be completed every 3 years by all WaterAid staff.

4.5.3 Non-WaterAid staff who are representing WaterAid in their work must be briefed on and complete the declaration (appendix 1) prior to any contact with children. This should be provided to the person by the WaterAid staff member who is organising the activity project where the contact with children will occur, in most cases this will be included as part of the e-learning programme on child safeguarding that they must complete.

4.6 Training

4.6.1 All WaterAid staff must complete the child safeguarding e-learning programme and training workshop during induction and thereafter at least every 3 years. This includes staff who will have no expected contact with children in their role. All staff will be expected to participate when this procedure is initially rolled out across WaterAid.
4.6.2 WaterAid consultants and trustees should also complete the e-learning programme prior to first contact with children when representing WaterAid.

4.6.3 The Safeguarding Focal Point in each office is responsible for organising training for new staff and refresher training to existing staff every three years. In the case of partner organisations, the Programme Manager is to confirm at the time of contracting that the partner organisation has appropriate child safeguarding training in place for all staff. In the absence of this, WaterAid may offer to assist with the provision of training.

4.7 Recruitment, selection and employment for staff, volunteers and consultants

4.7.1 WaterAid recognises that appropriate and stringent recruitment procedures can prevent people who may pose a risk to children from gaining employment and thus minimise the risks of child abuse being committed by a member of staff, volunteer or consultant. Occasionally, a small minority of individuals will target organisations and look to those with weak or inconsistently applied systems.

4.7.2 Due to the nature of WaterAid’s work, our roles should not normally require or involve direct, unsupervised contact with children, although on a rare occasion there may be the potential for unsupervised contact in a small number of roles. The following measures are required for the recruitment of staff and consultants with direct unsupervised and supervised access to children. Successful candidates should not start their new role prior to completion of the pre-employment checks below.

Where this is not possible, details of efforts will be recorded and a judgement for employment made based on other supporting information.</td>

4.7.3 Where background checks disclose a blemish on an individual's record, it is important to have a process by which convictions or other relevant information can be judged fairly and consistently and a decision made on suitability for employment. Offences against children should prevent employment into roles involving contact with children. Other offences should be judged on the basis of seriousness, length of time since conviction, context of offence, and relevance to role. It may be necessary or advisable to have a discussion with the candidate to gather more information on which to base a fair decision. HR and legal advice should be sought where needed.

4.7.4 Consultants undertaking work for WaterAid should complete a consultant contract, with a clause included on child protection. See appendix 9 for an example clause.
4.7.5 Any work experience schemes for children must consider child safeguarding as integral. A risk assessment of both general health and safety issues as well as specific child safeguarding issues should be undertaken. Control measures should include supervision by at least two members of staff at any time or criminal records checks to be undertaken where this is not possible. Children should also be made aware of with whom to discuss any concerns.

4.7.6 A wide range of templates for employment of staff and consultants can be found on the NSPCC website.

4.8 Information technology and social media

4.8.1 Developments in technology and social media has increased the possibilities for communication, including with children. Data protection requirements also mean that any information held on children should be in line with legal and regulatory frameworks.

4.8.2 Programmes should adopt and ensure implementation of the IT policy. This provides guidance on the use of the internet and email and prohibits staff from browsing or viewing websites that contain pornographic, offensive or harmful material, and/or downloading, displaying, storing, printing, distributing, or redistributing any such material, especially that relating to children (i.e. abusive images of children and/or child pornography).

4.8.3 ICT should prohibit staff from browsing or viewing websites that contain pornographic material. Access to inappropriate sites should be reported and responded to in line with the local reporting procedures and be treated as a child protection or disciplinary matter. This may also be a criminal offence and must be reported as such to the relevant authorities.

4.8.4 Information held on a child should be restricted to only staff that need this as part of their role. Any information regarding a child should only be used for the reasons provided when consent was obtained. All information collected that identifies a child must not be disclosed or accessed by an unauthorised person without the informed consent of the parent, carer or child. This should also be protected in accordance with local privacy acts and data protection laws.

4.8.5 Local policies should cover the safe storage, retention, handling (including transmission) and disposal of child sensitive data or information including stories, images, consent forms and information relating to child protection incidents or concerns.
4.8.6 Raise awareness to all staff who use social media day-to-day as part of their work and in general about the potential issues that can arise and of the risks to children from this kind of media exposure.

4.9 Media, communications and use of images

4.9.1 Media and communications work that features or involves children is an important part of WaterAid’s work. It is important to recognise that children can be at risk of harm as a result of WaterAid gathering and using images and stories of them. The participation of children in media and communications work must be subject to detailed planning and preparation to ensure child safeguarding by identifying and addressing any potential risks.

4.9.2 Risks from media and publicity visits, journalists, media, researchers, celebrities and other visitors, interviews with children, children speaking on public platforms at conferences, images of and information on children being used to illustrate WaterAid’s work and publications must be assessed and mitigated.

4.9.3 Images of children should only be used subject to strict guidelines in line with the WaterAid Ethical Photography policy.

4.9.4 All images of children, as well as other media content including words and stories, must be obtained with the appropriate full and informed consent, through the form in WaterAid’s Ethical Photography policy, based on full disclosure to the child and parent or carer of all use of the child’s data. The consent form includes information on how, for how long, if it will be used on social media or internet sites where WaterAid will not be able to control further use or distribution of the data.

4.9.5 Public exposure via publication of images and stories can place children at risk. Do not publish full identifying information, only first names and a broad geographical location (e.g. region, province or district). If children are especially vulnerable, do not show their faces or identify them in any way (e.g. change names).

4.9.6 Images of children should show them suitably dressed to reduce the risk of images being used inappropriately and to avoid impacting negatively on their privacy and dignity. Images of children should never present them in poses that could be interpreted as sexually suggestive or in ways that impact negatively on their dignity or privacy.
4.9.7 Children may be at risk from people they are in contact with via media and communications work. Those in contact with children for these purposes should be subject to the same safeguarding approaches as staff and non-staff.

4.9.8 Photographers and filmmakers should not be allowed to spend time with or have access to children without supervision. They must also have completed the e-learning child safeguarding programme and declaration prior to any contact with children.

4.10 Fundraising

4.10.1 WaterAid representatives can come into contact with children in a variety of fundraising contexts including: volunteer speakers in schools, at events, children undertaking fundraising activities, supporter visits (children as supporters and children in communities). It is essential that all contact with children is appropriate and that their experience of involvement in and engagement with WaterAid is positive and safe. The following must be taken into consideration:

- Child safeguarding should be included within risk assessments as part of the planning process for all activities involving children, including supporter visits to schools and communities etc. Follow risk assessment guidance in appendix 4
- There should be no unsupervised access to children (i.e. a parent, another member of staff, a teacher etc. must also be present)
- A child's personal data (particularly contact details) should be held securely (e.g. password protected or in a locked filing cabinet) and only accessed by authorised staff
- Children undertaking fundraising activities should be advised on how to do so safely, for both child safeguarding and more general health and safety. Parents, guardians and organisers should be briefed and take responsibility for the child engaging in the activity
- Fundraising in schools should be undertaken in accordance with appropriate guidance from the schools and professional bodies.

4.11 Partners

4.11.1 Partner organisations play an important part in WaterAid’s work and its commitment to keeping children safe. WaterAid will engage with partners positively and encourage them to adopt appropriate child safeguarding standards into their work.
4.11.2 Incorporate a clause into partner agreements to include a requirement of partner organisations to adhere to the WaterAid standard or to develop their own (see appendix 9 for an example clause for use in partnership agreements).

4.11.3 Assess partner capacity in child safeguarding, during the initial partner assessments for new and existing partner organisations, and subsequently for compliance. See appendix 7 for minimum standards for child safeguarding in partners. The risk assessment tool in appendix 4 should be used by the relevant WaterAid Programme Manager (or their nominee) for projects which carry the greatest child safeguarding risks, to ensure a documented risk assessment is undertaken for the program of work for which the partner organisation will be responsible.

4.11.4 Be prepared to support partners in developing, strengthening and implementing child safeguarding measures. Although there is clearly an element of compliance when it comes to meeting safeguarding standards, the objective is to ensure the best outcomes for children so make sure to emphasise these common values with partners.

4.12 Safe participation – involving children and young people in WaterAid activities and events

4.12.1 Participation is about children having the opportunity to express their views, influence decision-making and achieve change. However, teams must question themselves on when it is right to involve children in programmes, activities, events and how this should be planned and managed. Participation must be ethical, meaningful and safe.

4.12.2 The importance of good planning and preparation cannot be over-emphasised when involving children. Start planning early – preparations always take longer than you think. Involving children without adequate time to prepare can compromise their safety so allow 3 to 6 months lead time ahead of events where possible.

4.12.3 The following measures will support child safeguarding in relation to child participation, adapted from ‘Putting children at the centre: a practical guide to children’s participation’ Save the Children 2010:

- As a minimum, all staff and consultants must have completed the child safeguarding e-learning programme, and staff should have completed the child safeguarding training. This will ensure that all staff and consultants involved in the activity have signed the child safeguarding declaration and have read the Global Standard: Child Safeguarding which can be found here www.wateraid.org/uk/safeguarding

- Consult with the Safeguarding Focal Point when planning events, trips or other activities involving children or young people

- Conduct a thorough risk assessment of the activity (appendix 4), share with the Safeguarding Focal Point and get approval by relevant senior staff. See example risk assessment appendix 5 based on planning an event involving children

- Where children will be travelling and staying away from home overnight, additional checks and safeguarding arrangements will be necessary to cover, for example, travel arrangements, venue, insurance, sleeping arrangements and supervision

- Create and share a procedure for emergencies or incidents

- Conduct a health and safety and child safeguarding briefing for all children and adults involved in the activity or programme of work with details of how to raise a concern, who to go to, etc.

- Keep an overview of the safety and wellbeing of children at all times

- Work with children to establish ‘ground rules’ for conduct between participants and share WaterAid's child safeguarding declaration to make children aware of what is expected of staff and volunteer behaviour

- Obtain parental or guardian consent and consent from the children

- Obtain and confidentially store medical information about the children

- Work with other staff to respond appropriately to any concerns that children may raise

- Allow additional time to involve children in planning and design of activities, events or projects where possible. This will involve a lengthier process but can bring huge gains in terms of quality and outcomes.

4.13 Monitoring and review

4.13.1 It is important to conduct periodic reviews and evaluations of child safeguarding measures to ensure all necessary safeguards are in place and working effectively. Ongoing monitoring should be incorporated into existing systems, and more extensive reviews conducted on an annual basis initially and then every two years.

5. Dealing with child safeguarding concerns

5.1 Responsibility to report
5.2 All representatives of WaterAid should be alert to signs that may suggest a child or young person is in need of help (see appendix 3 for resources that may help).

5.3 It should be recognised that deciding whether to report an issue can be a very difficult responsibility. It is important that any member of staff who discovers or suspects abusive practices refer immediately through the reporting procedure to prevent further potential for abuse.

5.4 A recommended template reporting form is available in appendix 10.

5.5 All countries should identify any statutory requirements for reporting to government or other bodies (e.g. law enforcement, social welfare). See appendix 3 for advice. Issues that breach the local criminal code must be reported or referred to relevant authorities.

5.6 It would also be good practice for all countries to build links with non-governmental agencies with a child protection remit to provide support and guidance on any issues identified.

5.7 If someone reporting an allegation of abuse feels that their report is being ignored or has not been responded to adequately, the Global procedure for reporting malpractice and breaches to the Global Code of Conduct should be used.

5.8 Reporting procedure – for an allegation involving a member of staff, volunteer, consultant or trustee

5.8.1 Where an allegation involves a representative of WaterAid (staff, volunteer, consultant or trustee) you should report it to your line manager (or primary WaterAid contact, if you are not employed by WaterAid). If you do not feel comfortable with this (for example if they are involved in the situation, or you have raised the concern previously and it was not taken seriously) you should report it to a more senior line manager.

5.8.2 Every country office at WaterAid has a nominated Safeguarding Focal Point. Focal points have been trained to advise on safeguarding people concerns and the action to be taken when a concern is raised. Therefore, you may seek advice from them regarding your concern and next steps.

5.8.3 If you still do not feel comfortable reporting to your manager (or primary WaterAid contact, if you are not employed by WaterAid), a more senior manager or discussing with your local Safeguarding Focal Point, then mark your correspondence private and confidential and report it to either:

- Leigh Heale, Global Safeguarding Manager, +44 (0)207 793 4947, LeighHeale@wateraid.org
- Rachel Westcott, Director of People and Organisational Development (global People lead), +44 (0)207 793 4560, RachelWestcott@WaterAid.org
- Your WaterAid member Chief Executive or a WaterAid trustee (details of which can be found in the Global procedure for reporting malpractice and breaches to the Global Code of Conduct)

5.8.4 After you have reported your concern, the manager that you have reported your concern to should take the following immediate actions:

- If the concern involves a possible impact on the health and safety of a child this will be the immediate priority. This may include any immediate medical attention that the child may require or immediate protection from any alleged perpetrator, which must include their immediate suspension for employees, and suspending their involvement with WaterAid whilst an investigation takes place for non-WaterAid staff members
- More information should be obtained immediately, within 24 hours of any alleged incident being reported. All information should be recorded, stored and used confidentially
- All reported concerns should also be reported to the Global Safeguarding Manager who can advise on next steps. This may include reporting to the member Chief Executive
- What an investigation may involve - once reported, the action taken will depend on the nature of the incident. Some incidents may be resolved promptly after an initial review whilst others may require a formal investigation
- Any formal investigation will be overseen by the Global Safeguarding Manager and will be managed as per the relevant WaterAid policy, such as the local disciplinary policy and in line with relevant national legislation
- The alleged perpetrator(s) must be immediately suspended. Suspension is not a disciplinary sanction and by no means indicates that any decision has been made
- Any individuals appointed to conduct an investigation should not be implicated in the complaint in any way. Either an independent manager or an appropriate external professional should be appointed
The local Safeguarding Focal Point should advise whether any statutory reporting is required. If a child is in immediate danger or if the concern relates to criminal activity, then the police, social welfare services or other child protection agency must be alerted in line with local reporting or referral procedures.

5.9 Reporting procedure – for an allegation involving someone external to WaterAid (e.g. a partner organisation or family member)

5.9.1 WaterAid is not a child protection agency and does not have the expertise to investigate or deal with allegations of abuse.

5.9.2 The responsibility of WaterAid is to take action to ensure the safety of the child by passing relevant information to the appropriate authorities or agencies. It may be appropriate for this to be done through the Safeguarding Focal Point.

5.9.3 If the allegation involves a partner organisation, an appropriate manager within the partner organisation should be informed, unless this is likely to place a child or children at (further) risk. A follow up process should be agreed with clear roles and responsibilities negotiated, including reporting to WaterAid on outcomes as this may also identify gaps or issues with the partner organisations approach to safeguarding which may require action by WaterAid. If reporting an allegation to a partner might place a child at risk, seek advice from statutory authorities or other agencies you have identified as being in a position to support on child protection matters.

5.10 Confidentiality

5.10.1 It is important that confidentiality is maintained in the handling of allegations and any subsequent investigation, and that information is only shared with appropriate people, i.e. those that need to know.

5.10.2 WaterAid operates a policy of limited confidentiality. This means anonymity for those raising concerns or any other kind of absolute confidentiality should not be promised, as this cannot be guaranteed. For example, there may be requirements to report to statutory bodies, in which case identities and information may need to be disclosed.

5.11 What to do if someone tells you they have been abused
5.12 The guiding principle in responding to any concerns around child protection is that the safety and welfare of the child should always come first. No child should be put at more risk by any action you take.

5.13 If a young person informs you they are concerned about someone’s behaviour towards them or makes a direct allegation – you should:

- React calmly
- Reassure them that they were right to tell you but do not promise confidentiality
- Take what they say seriously, even if it involves someone you feel sure would not harm them. It is known from experience that we must listen to what we are told even if it is difficult to believe
- Try not to interrupt when they are telling you their story. Listen carefully
- Try not to ask too many questions and do not begin to interview the child. If you need to clarify what is being said in order to understand the nature of the incident or complaint, ask simple questions (‘w’ questions such as ‘who’, ‘when’, ‘where’, ‘what’ - as far as possible. It is important to know what is alleged to have happened, when and where this took place, who is alleged to have done what to whom, was anyone else present, has anyone else been told)
- Ensure the safety of the child or young person. If they need urgent medical attention, make sure doctors or hospital staff know this is a child protection issu
- Record what was said to you either at the time if that feels appropriate, or as soon afterwards as possible using the child’s own words as far as possible, even if the words may seem rude or silly to you.

5.14 See flowchart on next page for further steps on this procedure.
WaterAid Child Safeguarding Reporting and Responding Framework

Concern

- Inform Line Manager (or Primary WaterAid contact)
- Inform Global Safeguarding Manager

- Follow Agreed action or refer on

Immediate

- Max 24 hours

Max 48 hours

- Case involves WaterAid staff. Suspend and Investigate
- Case involves staff from partner or contractor – refer to Head of Agency and agree follow up
- Case involves staff of another agency – refer to Head of Agency and agree follow up
- Case involves community member – refer to local authorities/leaders and agree follow up

- Inform Global Safeguarding Manager, who will advise on next steps.
  - The local Safeguarding Focal point should also advise whether any statutory reporting is required (police, social welfare services or other child protection agency).

- If concern involves actual or possible criminal activity, refer externally to national authorities

Report concern to Line Manager (or primary WaterAid contact). If you don’t feel comfortable reporting to the Line Manager, then report to a more senior manager, or seek advice from your local safeguarding focal point.

If you feel this is not appropriate, report to the Global Safeguarding Manager (safeguarding@wateraid.org) or Rachel Westcott, Director of People (RachelWestcott@wateraid.org) or your Member Chief Executive or Board Trustee. The manager it is reported to, should:

- Firstly, consider immediate health and safety needs of the child
- Ensure protection from alleged perpetrator, to include their possible suspension.
- Inform the local safeguarding focal point
- Record all relevant information. Use and store this confidentially.
- Agree immediate actions, if any
Appendices

Appendix 1: Child safeguarding declaration

To be read and signed by all WaterAid representatives undertaking WaterAid activities\(^1\) where they may have contact with children during their work.

I, [insert name], have read and understood WaterAid’s Global Standard: Child Safeguarding and agree to adhere to the policy. In particular, I will:

- Treat children with respect regardless of race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national, ethnic or social origin, property, disability or other status
- Not use language or behaviour towards children that is inappropriate, harassing, abusive, sexually provocative, demeaning or culturally inappropriate
- Not engage children in any form of sexual activity or acts, including paying for sexual services or acts
- Always ensure another adult is present when working in the proximity of children, unless in unexpected emergency situations
- Not invite unaccompanied children into my home, unless they are at immediate risk of injury or in physical danger
- Not sleep in close proximity to children that I have contact with through WaterAid’s work
- Use any computers, mobile phones, video or digital cameras appropriately and never to exploit or harass children or to access child pornography through any medium
- Refrain from physical punishment or any discipline of children that I have contact with through WaterAid’s work
- Refrain from hiring children for domestic or other labour that is inappropriate given their age or development stage, which interferes with their time available for education and recreational activities, or which places them at significant risk of injury and any form of exploitation. Children should not be taken out of school to be photographed or filmed by staff on content gathering trips.
- Comply with all relevant local legislation, including labour laws in relation to child labour

\(^1\) This code of conduct applies to contact with children in your professional role, but WaterAid hopes that WaterAid representatives will apply these good practice principles to conduct towards all children in the interests of their welfare, protection and development
• Immediately disclose all charges, convictions and other outcomes of an offence that relates to child exploitation and abuse, including those under traditional law, which occurred before or occurs during my association with WaterAid

• Immediately report concerns or allegations in accordance with WaterAid’s procedures.

I understand that the onus is on me, as a person engaged by WaterAid to use common sense and avoid actions or behaviours that could be construed as child abuse.

WaterAid is committed to the safety and wellbeing of all children and/or young people who may come into contact with WaterAid representatives. We support the rights of the child and will act to ensure a child safe environment is maintained. We encourage our staff, partners and volunteers to actively participate in building and maintaining a child safe environment.

Taking and using images

• Before taking an image of any person engaged with our work, whether a supporter or a community member, I will ask their permission. Prior to photographing or filming a child, I will obtain informed consent from both the child and a parent or guardian of the child. As part of this I must explain how the photograph or film will be used, how long it will be kept and how the individual can ask for the image to stop being used.

• Consent to use an image on an official WaterAid channel does not extend to use on a personal social media account. I will not post anything that could give a negative impression of WaterAid’s work or could be harmful to the person in the photograph or film.

• I will ensure images are honest representations of the context and the facts

• I will ensure photographs, films and case studies present children in a dignified and respectful way and not in an unnecessarily vulnerable or submissive manner. No child should be photographed naked from the waist down and no older children naked from the waist up. Children will not be in poses that could be seen as sexually suggestive.

• I will ensure photographs, films and case studies do not contain information about a child that could lead to them being identified (i.e. use only first names and broad geographical location such as district or province rather than village).

• I will ensure that the UK photography team or a relevant child-safety representative in country, are aware of my plans to take photos or commission a photographer or filmmaker whilst visiting communities in which we work.

Appendix 2: General do's and don’ts when in contact with children

Do:

• Conduct yourself in a manner consistent with your position as a positive role model to children, and as a representative of WaterAid.
• Follow organisational policy and guidelines around the safety of children as outlined in the Global Standard: Child Safeguarding.
• Plan and organise work and the workplace to manage and minimise risks.
• Treat all young people with respect and take notice of their reactions to your tone of voice and manner.
• Raise any concerns, issues or problems with your manager or designated WaterAid staff member as soon as possible.
• Make sure all allegations or suspicions of abuse are recorded and acted upon.
• Respect each child's boundaries and help them to develop their own sense of their rights as well as helping them to know what they can do if they feel there is a problem.
• Remember that someone else may misinterpret your actions, no matter how well intended.

Don’t:

• Smack or hit children to cause physical injury, nor engage in rough physical games including horseplay.
• Hold, kiss, cuddle or touch children in an inappropriate and/or culturally insensitive way.
• Spend time alone with a child. Always ensure another adult is present and that you are visible to others.
• Sleep in the same room or bed as a child unless you are a parent, family member or guardian.
• Develop sexual relationships with children and make sexually suggestive comments to a child, even as a joke.
• Do things of a personal nature that a child can do for themselves, such as going to the toilet or changing clothes unless you are a parent, family member or guardian.
• Encourage meetings with children that are not related to you outside the programme activity.
• Take children alone in a car, even for short journeys, unless this is unavoidable for safety reasons. If it is unavoidable, make sure that someone else knows what is happening.
• Get drawn into inappropriate attention-seeking behaviour such as tantrums or crushes.
• Trivialise or exaggerate child abuse issues.
Appendix 3: Gathering local information on child safeguarding

Taken from the Keeping Children Safe global network of humanitarian relief and development charities committed to protecting children from exploitation and abuse.

Legal resources

- Details of any government bodies or agencies with statutory authority for the protection of children
- Summary of legislation governing welfare / protection of children
- Identify international conventions to which the country is a signatory or has ratified (e.g. UN Convention on Rights of the Child)
- Brief analysis of implementation / enforcement of legislation as known.

Criminal investigation or prosecution: Police and judiciary

- Local police position on investigation of criminal assault against children and likelihood of prosecution of such offences
- Legal age of consent in country and legislation covering this.

Other agencies – health services, NGOs, inter-agency forums

- Details of health and other services that may be accessed as part of victim response
- Details of NGO's, other agencies, other relevant bodies and professional networks, including any local joint arrangements for dealing with child protection issues, HIV, women's centres / refuges or safe housing.

Community

- Details of informal / community based justice and protection mechanisms and how these function
- Identify and establish contact with locally-based NGOs / INGOs and other organisations working on child protection / rights or aid programmes that affect children
- Gather information about community resources such as local advocacy groups, community and faith groups, or organised children's activities which could support the child protection work
- Establish contact with any academic institutions working on children's rights
• Identify and document harmful traditional practices such as early marriage, initiation ceremonies and female circumcision.

General information on child safeguarding

• NSPCC provides a range of guides online on how to recognise signs of abuse from physical, sexual and emotional abuse and neglect, etc.
• Online exploitation resources: Internet Watch Foundation, Virtual Global Taskforce and Child Exploitation and Online Protection.
Appendix 4: Risk assessment process

Any activity or work involving or impacting on children should be subject to risk assessment to identify potential hazards. Use the process and format below to describe and record potential outcomes to reduce the risk of these hazards causing harm to the lowest possible level.

Please be aware that all risk assessments are subjective, and to a degree based on the views of the assessor. You can make your assessment less subjective by involving others in this process. An example risk assessment is in appendix 5.

Five steps to an effective risk assessment:

Step 1: What are the activity areas? It helps to divide the whole project into different activity areas.

Step 2: Who could be harmed?

Step 3: Identify the risks and hazards from start to finish of the relevant activity

Step 4: Consider the existing control measures. Think about the degree of risk that the identified hazards of each activity area currently pose - taking into account the control measures already in place. If you are not satisfied with the adequacy of existing controls, seek to improve them.

Step 5: Calculate the level of risk, taking into account the control measures that are already in place. Consider the probability of an accident or incident happening. Enquire about previous accidents and incidents to assist in your estimation of what the potential for an accident would be. Ask ‘what if...?’ to imagine what could potentially go wrong, and the consequences of this. Consider the probability of the incident occurring and the impact it could have. Each risk must be allocated a score from 1-5 for probability and impact. You multiply these numbers together to give the risk score that identifies the risk level.

</tbody>
Step 6: If the risk is calculated as medium or high with the original controls in place, you will need to consider additional safety controls that can be put in place to eliminate, isolate or minimise the risk further.

Step 7: Calculate the new risk rating with the additional controls and actions listed. If the risk rating is still calculated as high risk, the activity must not be undertaken.

Step 8: Record and review. Your recorded findings and actions must be signed off and communicated to the appropriate people – this is all those involved in each aspect of the event or activity. This step must also be documented. If there are then any significant changes to the activity or venue you must reconsider and review your risk assessment, and re-evaluate the risks again. Both the manager responsible for the project and the staff member undertaking the risk assessment must agree that the control measures are adequate and in place before the activity or event takes place. As well as the local manager, it is sensible to have a senior manager and/or the Safeguarding Focal Point reviewing and signing off on risk assessments.

Instruct children to go to a secure place (cash desk in service area, back to the venue they have just left e.g. theatre), phone leader and stay there until picked up. Leader should inform home contact as soon as possible about incident.

Appendix 6: Which projects, activities or programmes to risk assess for child safeguarding?

Most projects and activities should be risk assessed for child safeguarding. In deciding which projects to risk assess, consider the following factors in the table below. The more of these that feature in a project, the higher the safeguarding risk and so the greater the need is for a risk assessment to be completed.

Please note that all WASH in school projects should be automatically risk assessed.

Appendix 9: Example clauses for contracts and agreements

Please see below some template clauses which could be used in contracts or agreements. Local legal advice should always be sought, to ensure that any clauses are appropriate before these are used.

Example clause on child safeguarding in WaterAid partnership agreements:

1. The Agency is required to comply with the minimum standards for child safeguarding and to work in line with its own child safeguarding policy or, where such does not exist, in line with WaterAid’s Global Standard: Child Safeguarding.

2. The Agency implementing a WaterAid project shall make known to its personnel, in an appropriate manner, the core values, guiding principles and commitments contained in the attached WaterAid child safeguarding declaration. Agencies shall also take steps to ensure that its personnel adhere to the WaterAid standards of conduct as set out in the child safeguarding declaration and the Global Standard: Child Safeguarding.

3. The Agency shall inform its staff of what procedure they are to follow when they acquire some knowledge and information regarding activities by a fellow worker, whether in the same Agency or not, that are inconsistent with the standards of conduct as set out in the WaterAid Global Standard: Child Safeguarding.

4. The Agency must report to the WaterAid representative any information received indicating a situation as described in three or any other situations where the protection of children is at risk.

Example clause in WaterAid staff employment contracts (can be adapted for consultant or volunteer contracts)

As an employee of WaterAid, you are required to comply with the practice and principles as stated in WaterAid’s Global Standard: Child Safeguarding both in the course of employment and in your private life.

Actions undertaken solely by, or participated in by you, which materially contravene the principles of this policy/standard either in the course of employment or in your private life, may be considered gross misconduct, depending on the facts of the case.

Example clause to be used in forms to be signed by supporters or trustees in advance of WaterAid field visits

As a WaterAid supporter carrying out a visit with WaterAid, you are required to comply with the practice and principles as stated in WaterAid’s Global Standard: Child
Safeguarding and the associated child safeguarding declaration during your WaterAid visit and thereby ensure that at all times you will promote the safety and protection of children with whom you may be in contact, directly or indirectly.
Appendix 10: Reporting form of child safeguarding incidents

Any concerns, allegations or disclosures should be written down as soon as possible, and records signed and dated.

Records should be detailed and precise and interpretation should be clearly distinguished from reporting.

If you are not sure whether you should report a concern or not, it is recommended that you report it and discuss this with the appropriate representative to avoid anything being missed.

Make a clear distinction between what is fact and observed by you and what is hearsay:

Exactly what the child / young person has said and what you have said. Record the actual details of what the child says – do not lead them:

Any other information e.g. does the child have a disability? Do they have communication problems or learning disabilities?
Witnesses. Names and contact information:

Were any other children involved?

About the alleged perpetrator. If appropriate record as much detail as possible about the alleged perpetrator, including name, job title, organisation, address, age, sex and physical description:

External agencies contacted (if any) – date and time of contact and advice received:
