

Did you notice your milk curdling this morning? Must be because you're on your period.

We're joking – you probably just left it out in the sun. But in some countries myths like this do exist, making it hard for women and girls to gain an education and be active members of their communities. WaterAid is working hard to break these taboos and make periods less of a burden.

